Greetings!

It brings me great joy to communicate with you from this format, our first issue of the Apostolic Flow.

First of all, we speak peace to you in the matchless name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus and may His joy be multiplied upon you.

I sincerely appreciate your faithful support to RLWMI and the many sacrifices you make to the furtherance of the Gospel and the work of RLWMI. The Summits are always better than the year before, and Summit 2019 was extremely beneficial to all attendees according to the many responses from the attendees. Our selection of speakers and presenters were excellent according to the feedback from attendees. Our aim is to make sure that all sessions and presentations are advantageous to all so that each life is encouraged and built-up allowing you to be fortified through others to continue the work that the Lord has assigned to your hands knowing that everyone's work and assignments may differ.

We endeavor to bring subjects and issues that are not likely to be ministered and/or talked about on/or in one's Sunday morning's service. We have found that there is such denial from people concerning areas that they may be victims of or find themselves struggling in which they are too timid to expose. Many churches seem to make believers feel guilty and hopeless if there are areas that one may be experiencing that are outside of the testimony of a born-again individual. We know that there are addictions that some people have involved themselves with whereby they seem to enjoy and defend themselves for that addicted behavior. I'm not sure how to help them since they feel good and are defensive concerning unholy behavior. On the other hand, there are those who truly desire deliverance from behavior that is not saintly or that of a holy testimony. If you personally are going through, I want you to know our ministry has high hopes for you and believes in you.

Our office has received feedback from the 2019 Ministerial Summit questionnaire. We want to thank you for responding to the questionnaire. It helps us on the subject and presentation planning for Summit 2020. Ironically, some of your responses are already areas that we have been contemplating as areas and issues for presentations and discussions for 2020.

We are also looking into conference calling by phone as a method of having some board meetings. This will expedite meetings without the cost and labor of driving to a physical site to have a necessary meeting since the board members are from so many varying locations.

There seems to be so many people in quest of one's purpose. Let's look at Romans 8:28 in its entirety without interruption of the verse. Do not pull from this verse "our favorite part" which seems to be the first clause that I here so often quoted (KJV): "For we know that all things work together for good to them that love God," and then try to justify circumstances off a fragment of the verse. If we don't complete the whole verse, we will be in confusion and denial when things just seem to be going in the opposite direction of what we are hoping for as an end result.

A fragment of this verse cannot bring you hoped for results if we stop on the first clause because just loving God will not cause things to work out for your good. Millions upon millions of people love God. If you ask them, they will all reply, "Yes, I really love God;" but that alone will not cause all things to work together for one's good. Let's complete the verse, then we will have the completed verse to stand on. The rest of the verse says – "to them." What them? "The them who are the called according to HIS PURPOSE."

Have you submitted yourself to the calling of His Purpose in and over your life? I find that we seek what we feel is our individual purpose and get confused over what we think our purpose is.

But if we know that we are called to "HIS PURPOSE" and rest in that, then we will find ourselves enjoying our journey no matter how trying it may be. And, we will be accepting of what might befall us knowing that because we love Him and are the called according to His purpose we can truly be confident that whatsoever is going on is all working together, precisely for our good. This is walking by faith and not by the five senses.

You will see, when my involvement is me seeking my purpose, I end up with a lot of confusion and guess work and am always seeking some word of confirmation from others to tell me what my purpose is. Depending on how many people I go to, their words to me are not the same or their words concerning me and my purpose keep changing. Thus, I am never comfortable in the things of God and often am anxious and worried over whether I am in my purpose and pleasing God or not.

MINISTERIAL SUPPORT
for
2020 MINISTERIAL SUMMIT

Registration Fee of $20/single; $30/married couple

All ministers under RLWMI are asked to support our 2020 Ministerial Summit with the following financial obligations:

- Licensed Ministers ----- $50/year
- Ordained Ministers ----- $100/year
- Bishops ----- $150/year
- Church Families ----- $25/year

A special offering will be received on Sunday morning to be given to Apostle Robert L. Jones.

Your annual renewal to be affiliated with RLWMI is due in October. This fee goes to help support the corporate ministry of RLWMI. Reminders will be sent to you in September.

When I end my personal quest for my purpose and surrender to His Master plan—and Master Called-out purpose that He alone has purposed for me, I can rest with and in Him and just simply flow with His Purpose saying, "Lord, not my perceived purpose, but your sovereign purpose have its way in me." Then I will know that all things are working together for good.

Whenever one is chasing after their own perceived purpose, it often leads to seeking approval from man. People might even find themselves copying or mimicking others. You might find yourself being no more than an echo of man rather than the fresh voice or a right-now word from God.

This leads to a continued feeling of being unfulfilled. I invite you now to submit totally to God for His Purpose, which you are “the called to” and your outcomes will always be according to His Purpose. It is then that Romans 8:28 will remain a vital word of comfort for you no matter what is going on in your life; for in that you WILL KNOW THAT ALL THINGS ARE WORKING TOGETHER IN CONCERT FOR YOUR GOOD BECAUSE YOU LOVE GOD AND YOU ARE THE CALLED ACCORDING TO HIS PURPOSE.

This complete verse will then keep you encouraged on your journey.

Apostle Dr. Robert L. Jones, Th.D., D.D.
